New Graphic Works From Dresden

The work in this exhibition highlights the very productive and fertile work in contemporary printmaking currently being made in and around Dresden, Germany. I was introduced to many of these artists during open studio visits in the fall of 2006, ending the city's yearlong Jubilee celebrating its 800th birthday. Dresden has a great tradition of fine printmaking, Otto Dix was once faculty at the Dresden Academy of Art, and some of the Die Brücke artists were inspired by this landscape. Many of the artists included here have also been involved with the Ohio Arts Council's Artists in Residence Program at Zygoté Press in Cleveland.
